

"Rebellion on a Budget: Alternative Dispute Resolution in Property Tax (Mediation and Arbitration)," IPT's 43rd Annual Conference

Speaking engagement
June 25, 2019
San Antonio, TX

Related Services

Property Tax
State & Local Tax
Tax

When waging war against the Empire, there are a number of ways to continue the campaign after you have exhausted all administrative processes. Litigation is often chosen, as it is generally the next formal step in the statutory process; however, this method can be costly. Alternative Dispute Resolution offers another path to resolve property tax disagreements, usually as a lower cost alternative. This session will thoroughly explore mediation and arbitration alternatives on the road toward resolution.

Learning objectives:

After attending this session, the attendee will be able to:

Describe the mediation and arbitration processes and their steps

Differentiate between mediation and arbitration alternatives

Evaluate factors influencing alternative dispute resolution versus litigation

Estimate costs associated with alternative dispute resolution options

For general information on the conference, visit Institute for Professionals in Taxation's website.